Animal Welfare & Humane Treatment

DCSC has taken a firm stand to ensure that the horse shown at DCSC events will be treated with the dignity and respect they deserve.

No person on the show grounds may treat a horse in an inhumane manner.

Inhumane treatment includes, but is not limited to:

If there is a second offense, person will not be allowed to show at any DCSC events.

The standard by which conduct, or treatment will be measured is that which a reasonable person, informed and experienced in generally accepted equine training and exhibition procedures, would determine to be cruel, abusive and inhumane.

JUDGES

Designation as a DCSC judge is a privilege, not a right, to individuals whose equine expertise and personal character merit the honor, as well as his/her individual conduct as a member, exhibitor, or judge. Additionally, his/her ability must be exemplary; is subject to continual committee review; and such designation is revocable by DCSC board with or without notice. Approved judges must have demonstrated their ability to judge a variety of disciplines and breeds. Prospective judges holding other breeds and association judge's cards will not be given preference over other prospective judges showing the same ability to judge a variety of disciplines and breeds.

Horses shown within the previous three (3) months by a judge or member of the judge's immediate family may not be shown to that judge. These specific areas of disqualifying conflict of interest are not exclusive and judges are ineligible to judge another's horse in other situations not designated by the rule. If a judge cannot exercise an objective opinion, free from possible prejudice, bias or other outside influence because of a connection with an owner, exhibit or anyone else connected with the horse, or for that matter, if such connection would appear to others to be of possible bias, whether or not the judge feels he or she would be affected, a judge must disqualify him or herself.

Judges shall not solicit an assignment under any circumstances.

Judge's Attire: Judges should maintain a proper professional appearance in accordance with USEF/AQHA guidelines.

Prior to the show

All invitations to judge will be confirmed by return of the DCSC judging contract. The judge's fee will be set in the judge's contract before the show.

Upon arriving at the show, judges should immediately report to registration. Upon reporting to, the judge will provide all necessary patterns to the Show Secretary. The Show Secretary post all patterns at that time.

A judge who is delayed in transit to a show should make every effort to call the contact numbers provided on the judge's contract to avoid unnecessary delay and confusion of the show management and exhibitors.

Judge's Responsibilities at a Horse Show

Judges will be provided with a DCSC rule book and are expected to know the rules of DCSC and are responsible for their own interpretations.

The judge has absolute control of the ring and authority over all persons in it. A judge shall dismiss from competition any unruly horse or person whose actions threaten to endanger other exhibitors or their entries.

Exhibitors shall not approach the judge for any reason during the time that the show is being judged. All contact will be made through the ring master or show official. An exhibitor must request permission to inspect the judge's score card.

Judge's Conduct and Integrity: Judges should not accept invitations to social functions held immediately before a show when the host and/or guests are likely to be exhibiting them. On the day of the show, judges should not visit the grounds, discuss the merits of the horses to be judged, or talk at length with those who may be exhibiting under them. Smoking should not be done while judging. Smoking is permissible between classes provided it does not delay judging. No judge shall at any time use strong or abusive language while judging a show. No judge shall judge a DCSC show while intoxicated.

Complaints

To make a formal complaint against a judge, such complaint must be in writing and signed by the complainant and contain specific facts for the complaint. The complaint must be delivered to the President of DCSC within two weeks after the show.
